

CRY WOLF

7-31-15
(#62)

1. He "cried wolf" for about the one-hundredth time while boasting how no one else could deceive him, snickering in haughtiness again and again at how gullible were those who'd still believe him.

[INSTRUMENTAL]

2. And then when the wolf, by deception, finally came he cried and called but none would extricate him. Too late, he realized that it wasn't just a game — as he cried in vain the wolf mauled and ate him.
